The Presidents of the Boards of Control of our Educational Institutions and the men associated with them are rendering faithful and unselfish service to the Church.

They are men of experience and vision—doctors, lawyers, bankers, business men, congressmen, educators, ministers.

They appreciate their responsibility to the stockholders—the Presbyterians of the South—and are more and more communicating to them matters of vital concern.

They are improving the records, auditing the accounts, planning for the future and holding the institutions to the purpose for which they were built.

They are forced to use economy—oftimes unwise saving, when they should have funds for enlarging and developing.

With more money in hand they could improve the quality and multiply the quantity of the output of these "factories," which are furnishing the most valuable product needed by the home, the Church, the State and the whole wide world.

Pray for the men to whom you have committed the important task of controlling your schools and colleges and seminaries.

Encourage them in their labor of love. Come speedily to their relief. Provide for them the funds so greatly needed.

Your educational institutions need your sympathy and prayers and help at this time of serious responsibility and enlarged opportunity.
